RUTH RUSSELL – SENATE CANDIDATE

GOOGLE YOUR CANDIDATE TO SEE WHERE THEY STAND

Democrat Senate candidate Ruth Russell has called for voters to google their candidate to see where they stand on particular issues.

"The Democrats believe people should make an informed choice. The quickest way to do that is to google the name of your candidate together with a particular issue to see where they stand."

"I think voters might get some surprises."

"For example if you google (Xenophon & human rights) you will not find many matches. Of course if you google other areas where Mr Xenophon has been active, like pokies you will find a huge number of entries."

"If you google (LDP & guns) or (One Nation and Immigration) you will find some disturbing statements."

"I recommend that voters go through all of the candidates you are thinking about voting for in this way and see if they measure up on the issues that are important to them," said Ms Russell.
